

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An image data acquisition method comprises scanning a sample by a light, receiving a light from the sample, to acquire a scanned image data, and 5 storing the scanned image data obtained by scanning a region of a predetermined size every time a region scanned by the light reaches a predetermined size, sequentially.